Sacramento, CA -- Don't miss the exhibition titled, "Timeless Sacramento", a series of color and digitally manipulated photographs by Tom Hulse that illustrate the often overlooked beauty of the architecture in Sacramento neighborhoods.

Though Hulse has done extensive photo essays of San Francisco, New York, and Los Angeles, he is inspired by the 20th century streetscapes, palm trees, anonymous apartment complexes, and tract homes of his hometown, Sacramento.

The Sacramento International Airport Gallery is facilitated through the Sacramento Metropolitan Arts Commission, Art in Public Places Program, a City/County Agency, and in cooperation with the Sacramento County Airport System.
